

I. Description

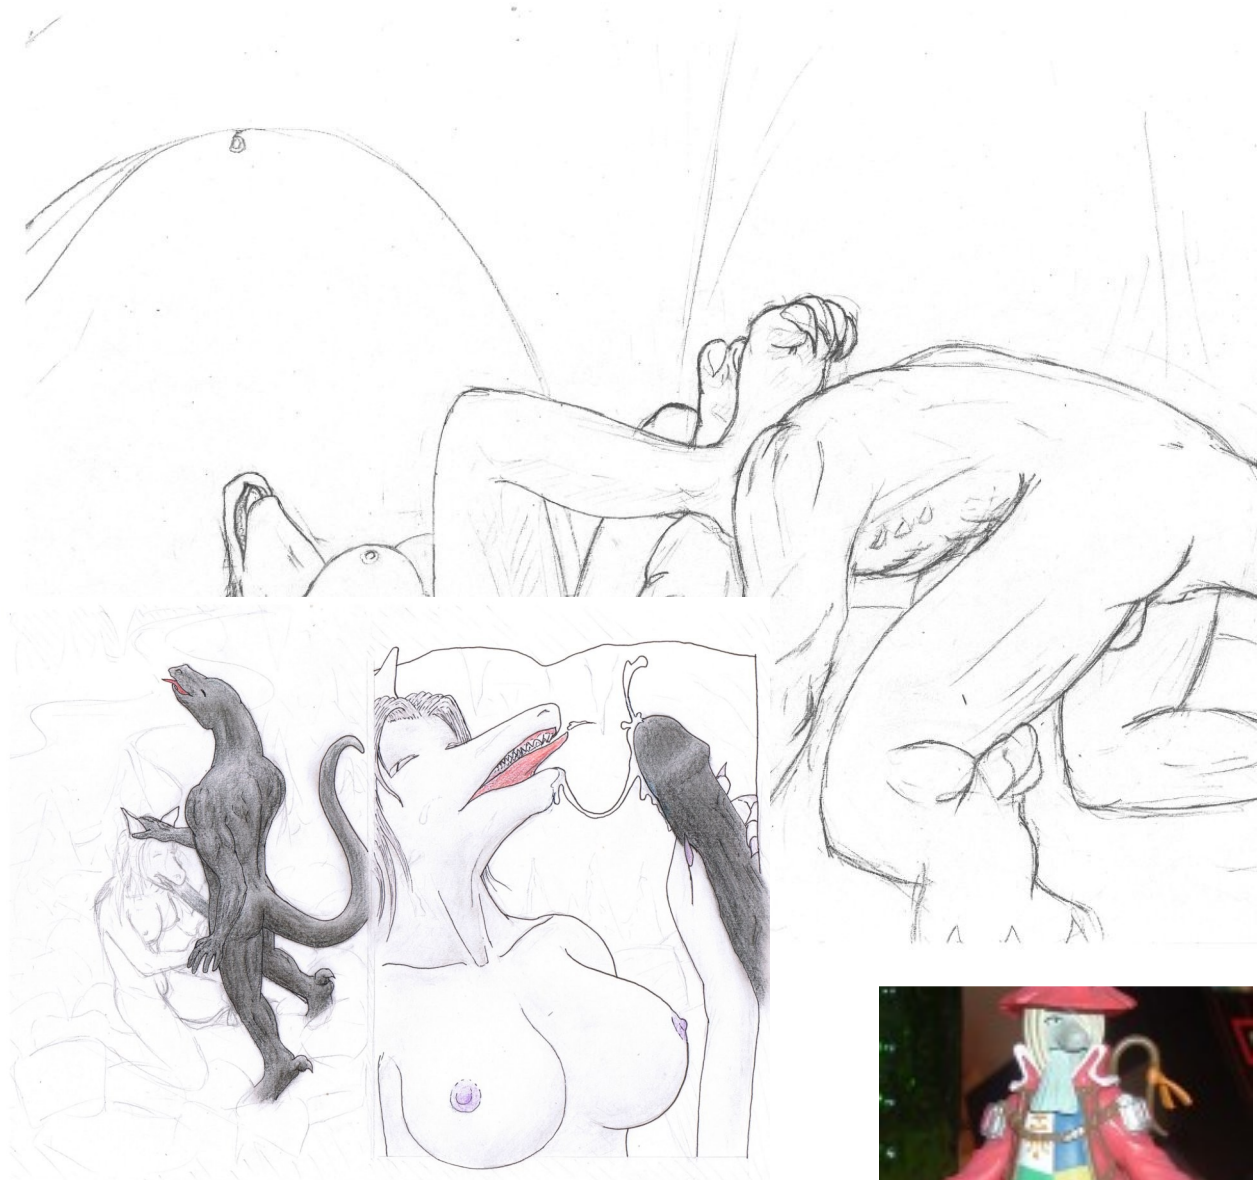

A. You're redoing the picture below. Huskie did a nice job, but she screwed a few things up. Mainly Freya's hat. Her clothes should be neatly folded up somewhere in the tent, cut off if need be. The thickened tail is incorrect and the tent she's in is a tad smaller. Also follow the color pattern from the other pictures with respect to Leviathan. She drew him rather dark. Try and make the angle something spicy from the angle of the upper right box. Nothing against Huskie. S'a wonderful pic, I just like having Freya right.

II. Story Scene

A. Thick blasts of serpentine gift showered her mouth and slid across her tongue. Freya mashed her breasts together more forcefully to prevent him from pulling out. Triumphantly, she accepted whatever he gave her, not caring that the excess messily seeped from her lips. This time, however, Leviathan's climax would be shorter than previous. That left Freya having to savor all the enchanted seed that she could.

Pic to go off of.

ignore Levi's dark shade. Pic in progress. He still needs to be lightened.

Freya Crescent figurine courtesy of Michael Caddell.

Use this picture for all reference purposes of Freya, noting the number of fingers and digitgrade feet. Notice the tail.